(Sutter Creek) Over this past winter, Logan Moody of Sutter Creek Boy Scout Troop 63, organized a dozen fellow Boy Scouts and a handful of adults to paint fire hydrants for his Eagle Scout Service Project. Moody and his volunteers painted 119 Amador Water Agency fire hydrants in the upcountry CAWP service area. Cleaning, painting and applying reflective powder to the hydrants in roadways, high traffic areas and neighboring fields took Moody's team 148 hours.

AWA Board of Directors presented Logan with a formal resolution at their April 23 Board meeting, recognizing and thanking him for his work and his spirit of volunteerism. Painting the hydrants with high visibility paint is an important community safety project, helping firefighters spot the hydrants quickly in an emergency.

Moody's service project is a final step in being awarded the rank of Eagle Scout on May 31, 2015.
